

Call for Papers
Interdisciplinary Conference of AHLiST
(Association of History, Literature, Science and Technology)
Universidad Complutense de Madrid
(National University of Madrid, Spain)
June 23-25, 2010

The 2010 conference theme is “deciphering”, with all its possible referents, including: Do we decipher digits, codes, data, words, texts, images, symbols, natural phenomena, and scientific results? How do we decipher them? We invite panels and individual papers on these or related topics, but will give full consideration to any proposal within AHLiST’s scope. Possible topics and areas of interest include, but are not limited to:

1. Convergence and divergence among literature, technology and science
  - i) Technology/Science and Literature
  - ii) Cognitive Science and Literature
  - iii) Ideology, Science and Technology
  - iv) Single or Comparative Author Studies
  - v) Fiction, Poetry and Science Studies
  - vi) Digital or Hypertext Literature
  - vii) Computer Mediated Communication and Humanities Studies
2. Interdisciplinary links among history, science and technology
  - i) History and Science
  - ii) Historic Cartography
  - iii) New Technologies and Archeology
  - iv) Restoration and conservation
  - v) Archive and Library Systems on line
3. Technology, textuality, and language
  - i) Accessible Information Technology in Education
  - ii) Computational Linguistics; Computational Lexicography
  - iii) Paleography and Pattern Recognition
  - iv) Digitalization Projects and Document Image Analysis
  - v) Information Retrieval, Database Systems and Data integration
  - vi) Technology and Humanities Teaching and Research
  - vii) Virtual Classroom; Interactive Technology and Language Learning
  - viii) Integration between Computational Methods and Theories with Research in Humanities

Submission Guidelines:

Please propose individual papers or panels, and indicate whether you are willing to moderate a panel. Panels of 3-4 presentations are especially welcome. To propose a paper or a panel, please fill out and submit the Conference COVER SHEET:

http://www.nebrija.es/~cmalagon/Mmedis/COVER\_SHEET.pdf

If you plan to propose a panel, please include the title of the panel and the names of presenters.

The conference committee requests the submission of COVER SHEET as an attachment sent to:

ahlist1@gmail.com or snol@purdue.edu

Deadline for submissions is November 15, 2009